

P HARI

Based in San Francisco, Hari is a Senior Editor and the North America Correspondent for Businessworld. He has been with the publication for over fourteen years now. Some of his earlier stints were with The Economic Times, The Financial Express and The Link Magazine. He has a Masters degree in English Literature from Calicut University.

Hari won The PoleStar Award titled, 'IT for the Masses', for 2000 for his article published in Businessworld.